Public Meeting Set on Rent Control In Borough; Tenants Urged to Attend

Tenants who rent apartments or houses in the Borough are being urged to attend a public meeting next Wednesday, November 12, on the Borough's rent-control ordinance. The meeting will be held at 8 p.m. in Borough Hall.

"If you don't come, we'll assume you don't care," says Julie Clark, a member of Mayor Robert W. Cawley's Rent Control Study Commission, the group charged with trying to decide whether the rent-control ordinance should be allowed to die next May, be re-written, or left as is.

This is the last public meeting on the subject—an earlier one was held in June—and the Commission hopes to submit its report to Borough Council by November 30, giving the governing body plenty of time to ponder before next spring.

The ordinance is a complex one. Among its problems are the fact that 36 percent of the Borough's renters don't even know there is an ordinance, one-half say they are not familiar with it, and one-third only live in the community for a maximum of three years.

A sample of tenants was polled this year by the Commission. Figures above are taken from the tenant survey.

Nothing in the ordinance says a landlord must tell tenants there is such an ordinance. Nothing in the ordinance compels a landlord to explain to a tenant why there is going to be an increase in the rent.

Although landlords came out in a hostile phalanx to the Commission's first meeting, back in January, the ordinance is regarded as being a "landlord's ordinance," and more than one landlord has said privately and gleefully that rent increases have been levied simply because they were allowed, under the ordinance, when normally the landlord wouldn't have raised the rent at all.

One provision, designed to protect the low-income tenant, has faded with inflation and the changing real estate picture in Princeton. This is the provision that rent control applies only to apartments where the rent is lower than $400 a month.

Everybody laughs at that one now, because the Commission has found that the average 1980 apartment rent in Princeton is $331 a month.

Another device would be vacancy de-control. Under this system, an apartment goes off rent control when it becomes vacant. This protects the current tenant and, especially, the current elderly tenant. Eventually, however, there would no longer be any elderly who could afford to rent an apartment.

The ordinance declares that landlords are entitled to a "fair return" on their investment, defined as one and one-half percent over the current prime rate, based on the market value of the property. With interest rates where they are now, of course, a guarantee of one and one-half percent over the prime rate is, in the words of one Commission member, "extraordinary."

For permission to raise the rent under this so-called "hardship" procedure, landlords must fill out a

Democrats Capture Both Borough Council Seats; Absentee Ballots Will Decide Races in Township

A Township race close enough to raise the possibility of a decision by absentee ballots in the heavy voting of a Presidential election, apparently gave the victory to Republican top-runner William Cherry in Tuesday night election results.

But his running mate, Winthrop Pike, is only 37 votes ahead of incumbent Democrat Kate Litvack, and the volume of absentee ballots was reportedly so great that it could affect even the comfortable 200-vote margin held by Mr. Cherry.

The Mercer County Board of Elections in Trenton told Township officials at 10 p.m. election night that it would be impossible to complete the full count before Wednesday morning. According to Township clerk Mitzi Fiumanaro, over 1,000 applications for absentee ballots had been given out in the weeks before the absentee deadline—an exceptionally high number, even in a Presidential year.

This does not mean, Mrs. Fiumanaro pointed out, that all 1,000 were filled out and mailed in; however, Township municipal offices are only one source of applications and municipal officials have no way of knowing exactly how many ballots voters mailed in to Trenton.

In the Borough, incumbent Democrats Nelson van den Blink and Robert McChesney scored easily over their sole opponent, Republican Fred Sidon.

In the Township, 72.95 percent of the voters went to the polls. The percentage in the Borough was 67.08. The Township figure compares to 74 percent in the 1976 Presidential race. That year was a record high, officials said.

There are 9,077 registered voters in the Township (6,618 voted on Tuesday) and 6,765 in the Borough (4,538 cast ballots).

President Jimmy Carter, who was conceding the election even as Princeton officials were still completing municipal tallies, out-drew Ronald Reagan in both municipalities. In the Borough, he ran ahead of Reagan by almost two to one: 2,330 to 1,251. In the Township, his lead was 3,044 to Reagan's 2,396.

John Anderson, who had attracted a wide following in Princeton, polled 926 votes in the Township and 708 in the Borough. Barry Commoner won 83 Township votes and 69 Borough votes. There were 48 votes cast in the Borough and 47 in the Township for Ed Clark of the Libertarian Party.

Republican Millicent Fenwick easily drew far ahead of her challenger, Democrat Kieran E. Pillion Jr. for the Fifth Congressional District seat. She polled 2,871 in the Borough (Pillion: 1,079) and 4,815 (Pillion: 1,285) in the Township.

Minus the absentee count, Township tallies were Cherry with 3,239 and Pike with 3,066 to Litvack's 3,029 and Barbara Cantrill's 2,840.

Mr. Sidon, in the Borough, polled 1,605. Mrs. van den Blink, running for her third term on Council, tallied 2,584. Mr. McChesney, in his first actual race for Council—he was appointed to his seat last year—won 2,538 votes. The two Democrats took all but one of the Borough's eight election districts. Mr. Sidon was high in District Eight, which includes the Westcott Road-Boudinot area, west of Bayard Lane.

Election Results

In the Township race, Mr. Pike and Mrs. Litvack are very close in some districts. In Seven, for example, she has 275 to his 273. (Mr. Cherry also has 273 in Seven.) In District Five, she has 256 to his 240.

However he is far ahead of her in District Ten, with 286 to her 183, and in District Eight with 321 to her 160. Ten is the area around Dodds Lane, Bertrand Drive and Herrontown Road. District Eight encompasses much of the northwest quadrant of the Township, including Pretty Brook Road and Brookstone.

Beyond the Borough-Township borders, Democratic Congressman Frank Thompson, who had represented Princeton before re-districting, was defeated by Republican challenger Christopher Smith. Mr. Thompson, who has held his Congressional seat for many years, campaigned with the burden of alleged involvement in the Abscam scandal.

Princeton voters in both Borough and Township approved all but two of the public questions — the same two. By easy margins, voters disapproved the Sunday racing and amusement games questions.

The Natural Resources bond issue won wide acceptance, with 2,672 "yes" to 704 "no" in the Borough, and 4,434 to 1,392 in the Township. Senior Citizen property tax deduction was widely approved also, with 2,909 Borough voters in favor to 652 opposed. In the Township, the tally was 4,687 to 951.

Although there were more than enough candidates to choose from, several who were not formally on the ballot received write-in votes. Apparently uncertain about the "Anderson Alternative" slot on the ballot, four Township voters wrote in Anderson's name. (The four are included in the 926 tally above.)

Others who received one write-in Presidential vote each were Edward Kennedy, Gerald Ford, Edmund Muskie, Walter Mondale — and the late Norman Thomas.

"Fair" Rent for Most Landlords themselves have tales of tenants "who live like pigs." Usually these are young people who live five or six to a unit.

The tenant survey made by most people prefer to regard the Commission shows that 26 percent of those surveyed feel that service and maintenance have been "about the same" since rent control—often called "rent levelling"—was introduced in 1973. And most—61 percent—believe their rent neither too much nor too little, but "fair."

This is the route landlords must follow to be granted a "hardship" rent increase. But there is no provision in the ordinance for tenant hardship.

The tenant who has just lost his job, the tenant who suddenly has to pay for her mother's funeral, the tenant in an apartment that hasn't been painted for too long—there is no form to fill out to protest unfairness. But the landlord can protest unfairness.

Tenants are, however, protected by the housing code. Landlords cannot raise the rent unless they comply with the code. This means a water-tight roof, plumbing that works, heating systems that send forth heat and, oddly enough, a top window sash that opens—in addition to the bottom sash.

Tenants are also protected by a provision in the law that makes it illegal for landlords to evict tenants who complain. Nevertheless, many who will conduct the annual follow landlord-tenant Veterans' Day ceremonies on relationships in Princeton say Tuesday at 11 a.m. at the Post 76 American Legion Post No. 76 will conduct the annual Veterans' Day ceremonies on Nassau Street. Harassment can take many forms: not showing up for a repair when you say you will, Mercer streets. refusing to repair something, Post Commander Margaret keeping maintenance at Chilcote and those Richards bare minimum.

But October was considerably cooler than normal, and nothing approaching those warm hazy days which the Indians liked because they were a temporary block on winter has been seen in these parts.

Tuesday's rain will be followed by clearing skies and more temperatures below normal. No more precipitation is in sight for the next three or four days, but it will be a sad November if Indian Summer misses us entirely.

With Smoking Marijuana. While he was investigating an incident of malicious damage in the Princeton High School band room last week, the Borough Juvenile Officer, Det. Douglas Watson, noticed two students allegedly smoking marijuana in a store room near the auditorium. The two, 16 and 17, were suspended for five days by school officials and will be processed by the juvenile officer.

The next afternoon, Ptl. Michael Taylor responded to a call that juveniles were acting in a suspicious manner in the rear of P.J.'s Pancake House on Nassau Street.

The officer found three high school teenagers, 14, 15 and 16 allegedly smoking marijuana and turned them over to the juvenile officer. Two youths are residents of the Township, the other lives in the Borough.

ASSAULT IS CHARGED

To Trenton Man. Daniel L. Speimheimer, 20, of Trenton, has been charged by Township police with assault and criminal mischief, following an incident last week on River Road.

Ptl. David Funk responded to a call that someone was shooting at deer in a field outside the Church of Christ on River Road. Upon his arrival, a chase ensued and the suspect ran to his car. As the officer approached the car, the suspect accelerated, forcing Ptl. Funk to leap out of the way to avoid being struck.

The suspect managed to escape. Further investigation revealed 175 to 200 feet of lawn damage from tire marks of the suspect's car.

Speimheimer was later called and told to come to headquarters where he was charged. He faces a November 20 hearing in Township court.

Student Is Assaulted. An 18-year old Princeton University student told police that he was assaulted early Sunday morning outside the Princeton Inn College.

The victim said that he had been sitting in a parked car around 12:30 when a car pulled along side and two occupants got out. One, he said, intentionally picked a fight. While he was fighting one, he was attacked from behind by the other.

Police said the victim refused medical treatment for a laceration of the mouth. They added that he could give no explanation for the incident.

One suspect is described as white, 18-19, 6-2, with black hair and a moustache, wearing a leather jacket. The second as white, the same age, 5-10, with long blondish hair parted in the middle. They drove off in an old Chevrolet Camaro, the victim said.

GENERAL ALARM SOUNDS

For University Fire. A general alarm was sounded at 9:28 Thursday night for a fire in a laboratory room in the Engineering Quadrangle.

According to Ptl. Bernard Lenhardt of the Borough's arson squad, the fire is believed to have been started by an electric spark from one of several motors that were running for an experiment being conducted by a graduate student.

Fire, confined to the one room, damaged the fluorescent lighting and there was a moderate amount of smoke damage. Police were first notified by a call from university security.

Fire at American Can. There was another laboratory fire last week in the Township.

Three fire trucks and 10 firemen went to the American Can Company off N. Harrison Street, after a security alarm sounded at 6 Thursday morning.

Assistant Fire Chief Ralph Hulit Jr. and ADT security personnel found a small fire in an analytical lab in the building. A shelf was burning over a counter in the center of the room.

According to police, the fire is believed to have started when a chemical bottle being used in an erosion experiment broke, causing a combustion.

The fire was confined to the shelf, wall and counter, but there was smoke damage, police said, to the entire lab. The smoke from the chemical fire was ruled to be harmless.

Finally Water all young trees thoroughly prior to the first really hard freeze, and be sure to apply a three to four-inch mulch, to prevent ground temperature variation, a condition very damaging to tender root systems.

To assure your new plantings of health and vigor in the future, plan to deep-root feed them next fall.

PROPOSED OFFICE RESEARCH ZONE: The triangular area in diagonal black and white stripes is the OR 3 proposed by the Master Plan and scheduled for ordinance public hearing this Wednesday at 8 by Township Committee in its Valley Road meeting room. The grey area lying between OR 3 and the Service Zone (all black at the juncture of Route 206 and Cherry Valley Road) is proposed for high density residential use, which is also on the agenda for discussion by Committee this Wednesday. Residential areas in varying low densities are shown in dots, and the existing OR 1 and OR 2 zones are the diagonal black and white stripes at the right.

THEFT REPORT

Dresses, Violin Taken. Four dresses and a violin were among items reported stolen this week.

The four dresses, three valued at $180 each and the fourth at $114, were shoplifted Saturday afternoon from a women's clothing store on Nassau Street, which Chief Michael Carnevale declined to identify. Two women, one wearing designer jeans, and a man are suspects.

The violin, valued at $150, was taken from an unlocked car parked overnight in a Hodge Road driveway — it was reported Sunday — and an IBM Selectric typewriter with an estimated $1,000 value was reported stolen Monday from an administrative office at McCarter Theatre. There was no sign of forced entry.

Two pocketbooks were stolen on Friday, one containing $65 to $75 from an office in the Bio-Chem Building on the University campus. The victim is an employee. The other was taken between noon and 7 p.m. from a desk drawer in a second-floor office at 80 Nassau Street. The victim lost $12 and credit cards.

There was a similarity in the entry of two parked cars last week. Both were Fords, both had their ignition switches broken off and the glove compartment of each was ransacked.

Taken from a car parked in a McLean Street lot was a $10 flashlight. Police believe a coat hanger was used to slip the lock on a door of the car. Although the car of a Yardville resident parked in the U-Store lot was rifled, nothing appears to have been taken.

17 Credit Cards Stolen. In the Township, a Prospect Avenue resident told police that a maroon leather credit card holder containing 17 cards was taken from her unlocked car while it was parked overnight in her driveway.

A Princeton University student parked and locked his 1971 two-door green Ford on Alexander Street at 8 p.m. Friday and when he returned the next morning he discovered it was gone.

Registration of the car, valued at $1,000, is 450-GOU.

In still another theft involving a parked car, Township police, while investigating an entry on White Pine Lane, noticed a car parked in the area at 4:29 a.m. with its right front door open. The glove compartment had been ransacked.

At 7:14 that morning, a garment bag containing clothing and a wallet belonging to the car's owner were found along a hedge row on Roper Road. Police identified the owner as an East Orange resident visiting on White Pine Lane.

On Hallowe'en night shortly after 6, a man stole a $19.98 mask from Center Stationers in the Princeton Shopping Center, ran out of the store, hopped on a bicycle and pedaled away. He was described as about 20, 6'2", with fuzzy black hair, wearing a green and blue jacket.

A soda vending machine at the Citgo service station in the Shopping Center was pried open last week and approximately $5 in change taken. Damage to the machine was estimated at $100. The theft was discovered by Ptl. Jack Petrone Jr. and Ptl. Virgil Angelini while on car patrol at 2:30 in the morning.

GOLDEN TOUCH ENTERED
On Nassau Street. The front door of the Golden Touch jewelry store at 20 Nassau was kicked in and glass broken Tuesday morning but police said that it has not been determined if anything was taken.

Police report an alarm sounded at 6:10 a.m. Unfortunately, Chief Michael Carnevale said, when the alarm was phoned in to the police desk by the alarm company, it indicated it came from a room on the second floor in the building. Ptl. Anthony Federico and an officer of the alarm company investigated and found the room intact.

Chief Carnevale said that the Golden Touch had occupied a room on the second floor; however when it moved recently to the ground floor, the alarm company was apparently not notified of the new location.

There were four entries on the university campus. Twenty dollars was taken from a wallet in an unlocked room in Brown Hall, and $17 from a wallet in a room also unlocked, in Alexander Hall. Both thefts were reported Sunday.

A $150 electric typewriter was stolen from an office in the Engineering Quadrangle, and between $300 and $400 was removed from a cash box in an athletic department office in Dillon Gym. There were no signs of forced entry in either theft.

An unlocked room in Princeton Seminary yielded a $300 electric typewriter, a 4-channel scanner valued at $60 and a Princeton Fire Department plectron.

PUBLIC FORUM PLANNED
On Medical Center Dispute.
A public forum on the labor dispute between the Medical Center at Princeton and its security guards will be held this Thursday at 8 p.m. in McCosh 28 on the Princeton University campus. Sponsors are the Princeton University Progressive Forum and the Dean of the Chapel. McCosh is south of the University Chapel and west of Washington Road.

Approximately 250 invitations have been sent to Center trustees, physicians, department heads at the Center, members of the Center Auxiliary, University faculty and interested citizens.

Although the hospital, the National Labor Relations Board and the United Plant Guard Workers of America were invited to send representatives, all declined, presumably because the question of guard unionization is still in litigation.

Two guards, Lawrence Milner and Dennis Papara, who were active in the unionization, will speak. Frank Spada, former security guard and now pastor of a Pennsylvania church, will read a letter he has addressed to Princeton clergy.

Other speakers will be Samuel Knupp, chaplain in a Lancaster, Pennsylvania, hospital and former adjunct in therapy at the Princeton hospital who is expected to protest hospital grievance procedures; Ted Salay, member of the hospital administrative staff who was discharged, and a former nurse at "Merwick," the Center's long-term care unit.

The Rev. Jack Johnson, pastor of the Methodist Church of Princeton, will speak on the involvement of the clergy. Last June, seven Princeton clergy conferred about the guards' situation with representatives of the Medical Center and its trustees.

An eighth minister wrote last month to William A. Schreyer, chairman of the Medical Center's trustees, declaring his belief that the hospital's objections to the union election are "patently ridiculous, obvious ploys to delay the implementation of an election found valid by both the regional and national Labor Relations Boards."

The writer is the Rev. Dr. Edward A. Frost, president of the Princeton Clergy Association and minister of the Unitarian Church. In his letter, he described the Center's actions as "blatantly immoral." The Center's "behavior in this situation is shocking and ill-befits the Princeton community," Dr. Frost wrote.

Mr. Spada's letter repeats charges he has made that "incident reports" on employees are used as a tool to control employee attitude at work. He reports that his supervisor asked him to warn Mr. Milner to back off because "the hospital was going to get him." He also reported that another Center employee was "ordered" not to talk with Mr. Milner and refused to follow the order.

He reports that Center nurses have told him they would like to form a union but cannot because they would be fired. One nurse told him, he states in his letter, that nurses were told not to discuss any job dissatisfaction with security guards.

If, by using "incident reports" the Center can eliminate some of the guards, Mr. Spada says, "the hospital will then have a powerful argument in overturning the union election when it goes to court. All the original members of the security staff will be gone and it would then be up to the new members to decide."

—Katharine H. Bretnall

CLAIMS QUESTIONED
By Hospital Employees. A group of 37 hospital employees, declaring their support "for the Medical Center as an institution and for the fairness of its policies, if not directly for the administration in its actions against the security guards," questioned this week the validity of claims made by the guards against the Center.

The group says there are 18 guards and parking attendants, in contrast to "1,200 to 1,300 employees of the Center, most of whom" — and the statement underscores the word "most" — are, in the majority of their interactions with the institution, satisfied.

No one "other than a few malcontent and over-qualified guards, have in the history of the Center, elected to join a union," the group's statement declares, pointing out that "no institution can threaten, harass or actively prevent the institution of unions; legal recourse is available to any set of people attempting to unionize."

The employees say that in terms of policy, "good wages, good benefits and a written protocol which prevents active harassment," the Center offers terms of employment equal to or greater than those of most unions.

Security guards, whose vote in 1979 to form a union is under legal challenge by the hospital, say they have been denied wage increases and new insurance benefits given to other employees. The 37 employees say that, in their view, such action on the part of the Center would have looked like an attempt to buy off the guards. They say this applies equally to the guards' charge that they have been denied participation in Center grievance procedures, and to their protest that they were not allowed to send a representative to Policy Review Committee meetings. The guards' allegations of threats cannot be proved, the employees say.

"We do not feel harassed; we do not feel we have been unjustly used or exploited," the group states, underscoring the word "not" in each case. "The opinion of some of the guards is not representative of the attitude of the majority of the employees."

The group also suggests that Princeton clergy, students

MAYORS URGE UNITED WAY SUPPORT: During the week of November 10, volunteers will approach Borough and Township merchants, asking contributions to the United Way. (32 merchants have already helped by giving ten percent of their gross sales during Columbus Day promotions.) Township Mayor Josie Hall and Borough Mayor Robert W. Cawley point out that 17,000 people who either live or work in Princeton, benefited last year from at least one of the 24 member agencies, 13 of which are in the Princeton area. Programs range from day care, professional counselling and recreation to help for the retarded and special care for the sick and elderly.

DOWNTOWN HOUSING
In New Ordinance. An ordinance loosening the bonds so that it will be easier to build housing in the Borough's Central Business District will be introduced this Thursday week that he had applied the when Borough Council holds present zoning ordinance to its 8 p.m. agenda session in the mix of apartments and stores, built in 1937 that constitutes Palmer Square West.

The buildings are totally non-conforming, Mr. Olexa reported. That is, under today's ordinance, Palmer Square could not have been built.

A third public discussion of the CBD will be held Thursday, November 13. Council is expected to invite public comment on possible bonuses to developers for public improvements, and on parking.

Mayor Robert W. Cawley, commenting on recent proposals by former Council member Alan Carrick for a referendum on financing a parking garage, pointed out to reporters that Mr. Carrick was a member of the Borough Planning Board — now combined with the Township Planning Board to form a joint board — that passed the 1967 Borough Master Plan.

"That plan recommended development of Palmer Square North and assumption by the Borough of responsibility for parking, concentrating parking in garages. We're carrying out, generally, those principles."

He said that, in his view, the planning that has gone on for the past year, "was designed to satisfy the questions Mr. Carrick raised. I'm very comfortable with the care with which decisions have been made."

More from University
Smiling with pleasure and exclaiming
"Naturally, we're delighted!" Borough
Mayor Robert W. Cawley announced this week that Princeton University has increased its voluntary contribution to the Borough by $5,000 a year — from $20,000 to $25,000.

University President
William Bowen wrote
Mayor Cawley that the University is in better financial shape than it has been, and therefore feels able to spare the extra $5,000.

The institution provides other non-tax revenues, the mayor explained, including about $25,000 a year "in lieu-of-tax" money representing properties the University has taken off the tax rolls (although, since this is a phasing-out operation, the Borough will eventually receive no money at all from this source).

In addition, the University contributes $700 to the Board of Health and pays its share of maintaining the sewer lines and disposal of garbage.

The new $5,000
represents one-half a tax

PURSE IS SNATCHED

On Wiggins Street, A Princeton Township resident had her purse snatched last week as she was walking on Wiggins Street near Moore.

Police said that a man rushed up to her around 7 p.m. and grabbed her purse. The victim struggled with him but was overpowered. Her assailant, for whom police say they do not have a good description, ran to a waiting car which drove off on Moore Street. The car is described as a dark-colored small compact, possibly a Chevrolet.

Chief Michael Carnevale commented that the area was somewhat crowded at the time by pedestrians attending a viewing at nearby Kimble Funeral Home. "Although the victim screamed and shouted, no one came to her aid," he said.

She was not injured. Her purse contained $50 and credit cards.

The oddity of the situation, Chief Carnevale noted, is that two days later a mailman notified police that he had found the purse on the front lawn of an Edgerstoune home and that its entire contents, including the money, were intact.

FENWICK TO SPEAK

At Pennington School, Rep. Millicent Fenwick, who has nine grandchildren, has accepted the invitation of Pennington School's headmaster Dr. G. Donald Miller to be the speaker at the School's Third Annual Grandparents' Day on Saturday, November 15.

Mrs. Fenwick was elected to her first term in the New Jersey Assembly in 1969, where she championed the causes of consumer and civil rights, prison reform and conservation.

At the age of 64, when most people are looking forward to retirement, Mrs. Fenwick resigned from her consumer post in the spring of 1974 to make a successful bid for the Republican nomination for Congress. She was reelected to a second term in 1976, with over two-thirds of the vote, and again in 1978 with 72.6 percent.

Princetonian Conquers 'Marathon Fever' When He Runs 26 Miles for First Time in New York

The first 16 miles he felt winners or losers. If you were good. Now as he strides over slowing down, someone would come up and pat you on the rear and say, "you can do it."

Running in last week's New York marathon — his first marathon ever — the doubts "was just beautiful." A different type crowd. All out to brunch. The Sunday morning "pretty crowd" is the way Irv remembers it. "But just as enthusiastic. Cheering us on. The cops were cheering us, the firehorns were sounding..."

At the 17-mile mark, Irv had told himself, only nine more to go. "Then I had a second thought: I still have a third of the race to go. You shouldn't do that; you can't tell yourself how many miles to go. The only way to run a marathon is step by step."

He sees a fellow Princetonian on the bridge, 66-year old Alan Poole running with his daughter. This is Mr. Poole's first marathon, too, and Irv is surprised to see him. He didn't know he was running.

He sees a 10-year old girl — the youngest in the marathon. They keep catching up to each other and everybody recognizes her, Irv says, because she has been interviewed on television. He sees two women running together, one leading the other. One is blind.

Spectator Support. About the 18th mile, he had noticed runners tightening up in the cold weather and moving to the side, stretching out or going to a medic. But he doesn't see anyone drop out.

The crowds cheer him on. "The crowds were fantastic all the way through," said Irv. "Everybody was cheering. Cheering you. There were no four hours.

Now the wind begins to pick up hard, blowing specks of dirt and dust right in his face. "I had to turn around," Irv said. "The wind must have been blowing 30 miles an hour and the wind chill factor made it feel even colder." It's cold and getting dark. Irv has been out on the course for more than four hours.

A Helping Hand. After 20 miles, Irv gives in to the fatigue. He walks for the first time. At this point, he recalled, he felt that unless something horrendous happened he could walk it in.

Around the 23-mile mark, a runner came up to Irv and said, "Baby, you're looking good. Only three more miles to go."

"Three miles is usually nothing but I knew those were going to be the longest three," said Irv.

An Ambassador for Our Town. Finally, the finish line.

Instead of the hat issued each runner by the race sponsor,

Irv is wearing his Princeton hat "so everybody will know where I come from."

His girl friend had been waiting at the finish line with a banner but Irv learns later that she thought he had already come in and had left just two minutes before.

"But I made it. Wow! Everybody was cheering. It didn't matter whether you came in in four hours, five hours or six."

"It's an accomplishment you can be proud of. You're saying I really believe in something. Someone told me

Sunday wasn't the marathon; Sunday was just the day you got to show it to people. Every day was part of it. The days when you got up at 5 in the morning and didn't want to run.

"The last 385 yards was your moment of glory but actually it was all 26 miles.

I'm glad I did it. I'd do it again. I'm going to continue running."

How It Began. Irv, who played soccer in high school and was on the tennis team at

Middlebury College, had started to run in April of last year because part of a six-day

EST seminar he planned to attend required running a mile and a half a day. "I wanted to get myself in shape."

The first time he ran he went a half mile — and got a side stitch. Although assured that no one ever died from a side stitch, it was painful and Irv recalls, "I thought I was going to die. A mile and a half looked impossible."

Before too long, he found that he liked getting up early in the morning and running — partly because he discovered that he could eat all he wanted and not gain weight. Soon he had a six-mile loop course. "A great way to start the day."

He ran the Princeton half-marathon and was, he said, in pretty decent shape. Thus encouraged, he decided to send for an application to enter the New York marathon.

Thirty thousand were received the first two days. An hour and a half after he had received his application five weeks later, he mailed it back.

Despite the quick reply, Irv missed the 10,000 cutoff.

Irv Urken
His Doubts Were Conquered

The next 5,000 were to be drawn by lottery, but a computer goof increased that to 6,005. He got in on the lottery and started to train in earnest in June.

A Bang-Bang Injury. His training regimen would prove to be anything but smooth. While playing softball, he ran into a second baseman and got his head snapped back and landed on his tailbone. "I got it at both ends," he said.

He didn't run for the next four weeks. The first day back he could go only two miles. "It was upsetting," he recalls. "I started to have doubts. Only two months left. Could I do it?"

By the time of the Princeton half marathon in September, he was running 60 to 70 miles a week and had completed the course three times, the last the day of the race in 85 degree heat. "It was a killer," he said.

A week later, while waiting at a stop-sign in New York, his small car was rear-ended and although not seriously injured, his training was interrupted for another two weeks. And the doubts returned. "I was depressed. I didn't know if I could do it or not. I just made up my mind I was going to do it."

Along the way, Irv received a lot of sustaining help from others.

Dr. Richard Fleming, an orthopedist, treated him for inflammation of the hip and slight bursitis. He told me what was wrong with me. I owe him a lot. I didn't mind the pain but I didn't want to run 26 miles and find out I might not walk again," said Irv.

Dr. George Rabbitt helped him with his back. Then, a few weeks before the marathon, Irv tried to run 18 miles for the first time but his hip flared up and forced him to give up after 12. Dr. Fleming was out of town. "I was desperate," he said. "I had invested so much. All I wanted was somebody to tell me I was okay."

Like a driven man, he looked up the telephone number of George Sheehan, a well-known running doctor who has written a number of books on the sport, and called him at his Red Bank home.

"I know you must get 30 calls a week and I apologize," Irv began ... "We talked and he told me I should have it x-rayed. Sounded to him like a stress fracture. He said that there would always be marathons and he suggested that I wait until next year."

No Time to Postpone. No way. Irv had been stricken by what he said has been called "marathon fever." It can happen in high school: you finally work up enough nerve to ask a girl out for the first time, she says yes, and your parents tell you you are going away, and do it next week. "They don't understand. I've got to do it this week. It's a first-time thing. My first marathon. I had to have this 1980 marathon."

He received a lot of help and encouragement from other area runners. Craig Masbeck, a former Princeton University track star, who has run a 3:52 mile, helped him mentally, says Irv. Jim Doig, Princeton University professor of political science who has run a 3:25 marathon, "pushed me" he said, the few times he ran with him.

to California, got him to change his eating habits. Carol was a big help, he says, always prodding him to run. "It's a lot easier to get up at 5 in the morning if you have someone with you. It kept me going."

Paul Leetsma of the Running Start store, another fine marathon runner, taught Irv how to train, and Irwin Weiss, a long-time track and cross country coach, also lent a hand.

A Standing Start. Finally, the morning of the race, Irv found himself in a group of first-time marathoners and women who had estimated their time at four hours.

He recalls the start of the seating mass as "surrealistic." When Mayor Koch fired the starting pistol at 10:30 on the Verrazano Bridge, he was unable to move for about 20 seconds. When the mass did begin to move, he started to walk for a couple of minutes. "You couldn't run if you wanted to," said Irv. About seven minutes elapsed before he crossed the starting Irv is realistic about the excitement of it all. He knows, he says, if he trains for the rest of his life he will never be as fast as, say, Hopewell's Bill Lawder, who ran the New York Marathon in two hours and 33 minutes.

But Irv, who just turned 30, identifies himself with another group of runners who run just for the sheer enjoyment. "It's just fun. Some people ask how can running 26 miles be fun. But it is."

WOMAN OF THE YEAR

Dorothea Lummis Honored. Soroptimist International of Princeton has chosen Dorothea Lummis, educator, as the recipient of the annual Woman of the Year Award. It is made in recognition of Mrs. Lummis's long professional career and her continuing contributions to the community.

Mrs. Lummis served for 31 years in public education as an elementary school teacher, elementary principal and administrator. After retirement of almost five years she was called back last summer to serve for a brief period as an interim principal, indication that her link with the system had hardly been broken.

She has served as president of Mercer County Elementary Principals Association and is past president of the Princeton Soroptimists. In retirement she has been active as a pink lady for Princeton Hospital, chairman of the Princeton Hospital Rummage Sale, chairman of Princeton Regional Scholarship Foundation, a member of Council of Community Services and the Career Development Committee.

The award will be presented to Mrs. Lummis by the Soroptimists at a dinner on Tuesday, November 18, at the Nassau Inn. Friends who would like to join in honoring Mrs. Lummis are welcome and may make reservations with Eleanor Nelson, 921-7226, or Helen Evatt, 924-1014. Cocktails will begin at 6 and dinner will be served at 7. The cost of the dinner is $8.50. Reservations should be made before November 14.

STUDENT IS CHARGED

With Stealing Candy Bar. A 19-year old Princeton University student has been charged with shoplifting, after he allegedly stole a 30 cent candy bar Sunday evening at the Wawa Store on University Place. Ptl. A 17-year old youth was arrested Friday afternoon when he was observed by Ptl. Anthony Federico crossing Witherspoon Street near Nassau carrying two six packs of beer. He was referred to the juvenile officer for

Princeton Police Note with Pleasure: Mischief Night Vandalism Decreasing

What if they had a mischief night and no mischief makers showed up?

That pretty much sums up Mischief Night in the Borough and Township. "One of the best mischief nights in recent history," Borough Chief Michael Carnevale said he was delighted to report. "The kids showed a great deal of restraint. They were polite. I think they participated in the festivities in an excellent manner."

Borough police listed just two reported incidents: a broken window pane in a door on Witherspoon Street at 7:58 p.m. and a leaf fire three minutes later on Quarry Street.

"In the past six years it has gone down hill." A far cry, noted Chief Carnevale, from the years when police and patrol cars would be pelted with rocks and missiles. "It's very encouraging."

Township Chief Frederick Porter agreed that mischief night in that community was "pretty quiet."

A Randall Road resident called at 8:08 to report that kids were throwing eggs at her house. Police responded, apprehended a group of juveniles and confiscated the eggs.

A Moore Street resident called to tell police his car had been spray painted and its aerial bent while it was parked at a Witherspoon Street bar. There was a leaf fire on Snowden Lane near Braeburn and the last call at 11:48 reported youths throwing eggs in the Parkside Drive area.

A Lawrenceville resident, Christopher Morris, 20, has been charged with theft for his alleged role in the theft of a number of student jackets.

The Medical Center Corner

Childbirth in the 80's means a natural experience in a secure setting. This is the common goal of the maternity staff of The Medical Center at Princeton. The way they provide it is by offering choice, special care, and modern facilities.

John W. Kauffman, President

We believe that there should be no mystery to childbirth, and the Childbirth Education Classes held at the hospital are the first step in a series of maternity support services. They are offered to all expectant parents at no charge.

We believe that choice is essential for expectant parents. If a couple wishes to prepare for the Lamaze method of childbirth, training with a private instructor is available.

The father's role in the delivery at the Princeton Hospital Unit today is the couple's choice. Having a baby here is not the old comic-strip scene of the father pacing the floor worrying about what is happening in the labor and delivery rooms. We encourage fathers to participate as the couple wishes; to lend support to their wives in the labor room; to be present in the delivery room — including delivery by Cesarean section should such a procedure be necessary.

For those who feel more comfortable in a homelike setting, we have provided a birthing room which, while it has a special delivery bed, also provides a cozy atmosphere.

Most mothers today wish to hold their babies immediately after delivery, and the Nursing Staff encourages and supports this practice, known as bonding.

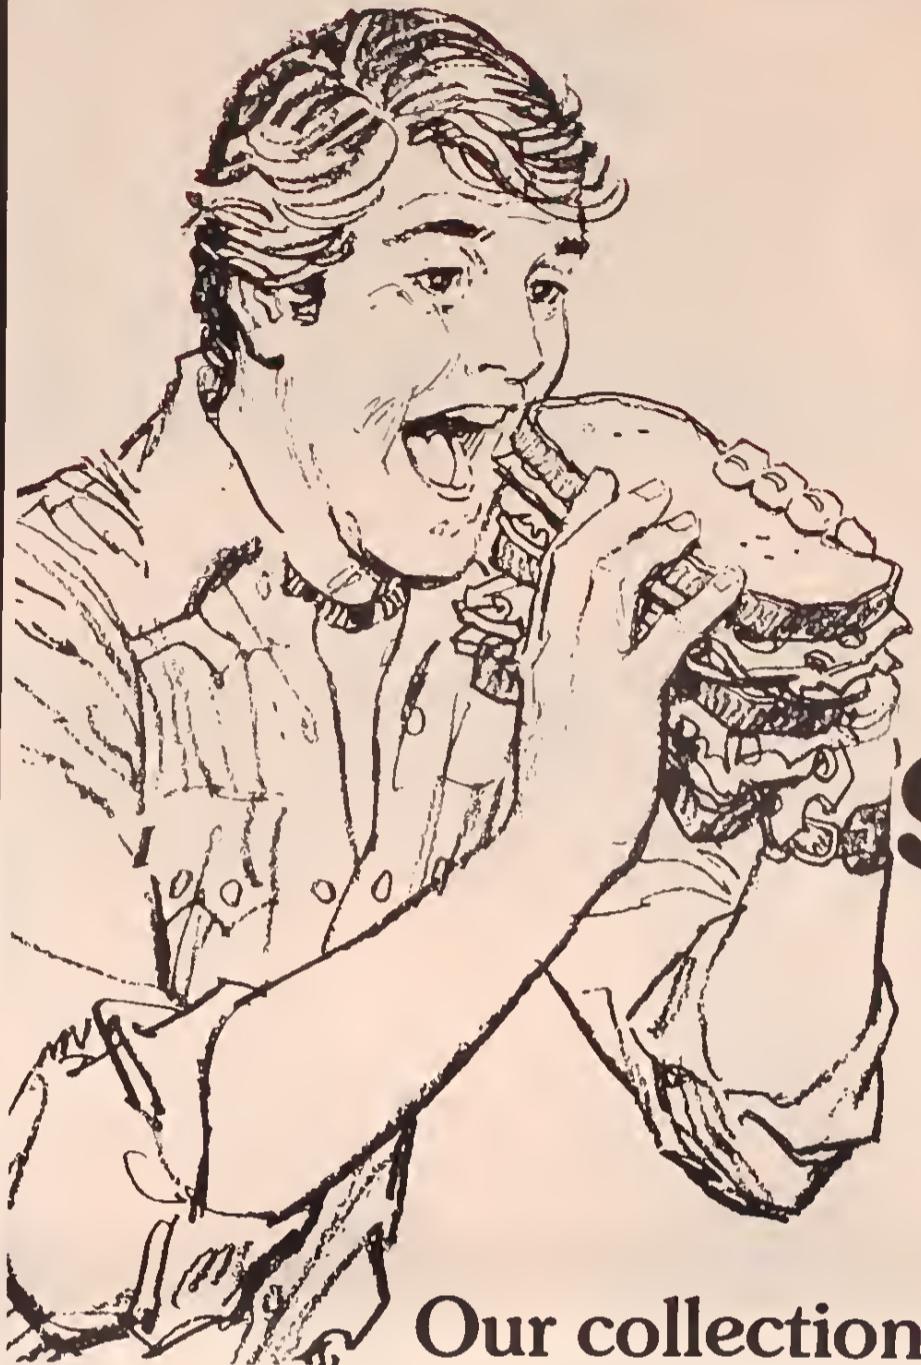

Other choices following delivery help each mother to do what is most natural for her and her family. Some choose total rooming-in with their babies; others are happier with partial rooming-in. Many mothers today choose to breast feed their babies, and our nurses encourage and support them to do so. However, if a mother does not wish to nurse her baby, or if breast-feeding must be supplemented by formula feeding, care is assured in the sterility and correctness of the formula.

If childbirth is meant to be a happy and natural experience for the parents, we believe it is also meant to be a natural experience for older brothers and sisters. For this reason there is a family visiting room where siblings come to see the new baby and their mother.

The health care team is educated toward the common goal: to provide warm, safe care. In addition they have the ability to take appropriate action in case of complication. And they have the most modern equipment and facilities backing them up; nurseries with intensive care incubators for premature babies, heated cribs, vital life monitors, oxygen analyzers, complete resuscitative equipment.

All the things we do and all the equipment we have are part of the Medical Center's aim to make childbirth a positive experience.

Princeton Author Finds 1946-64 Baby Boom Has Lasting Effect On Every Social and Economic Issue Confronting Nation Today

Just as Princeton faces the closing of one of its six elementary schools — built in the late 1950's and 1960's to accommodate a burgeoning school population now on the wane — along comes a book to explain why.

"Great Expectations: America and the Baby Boom Generation," by Landon Y. Jones of 1015 Mercer Road, has been published this week by Coward McCann and Geoghegan. It is a "generational biography" of the 75 million Americans born between 1946 and 1964, a baby boom so extraordinary that it has affected every fad, fashion and facet of our society.

Mr. Jones writes: "I do not think it overstates the case to say that almost every social and economic issue facing the nation today has a population dimension and that every population dimension has a baby-boom dimension."

The baby boom generation is the biggest, richest, best-educated generation America has ever produced. Born on a rising tide of economic prosperity to parents who had come through the Depression and World War II, baby boomers were endowed from birth with high hopes and great expectations.

"They were the first to be raised in the new suburbs, the first with the new televisions, the first in the new high schools... They forced our economy to regear itself to feed, clothe, educate and house them. Their collective purchasing power made fads overnight and built entire industries."

Pig in the Python. Because the boom was both preceded and followed by smaller generations, it makes a permanent moving bulge in the population as a whole — "the pig in the python," as demographers call it.

The cutting edge of this bulge (one million more babies were born in 1946 than in 1945) begins the turmoil that is enlarged upon as the rest of the mass passes through. The baby boomers made the 1950's a child-oriented society, the 1960's a period of stormy adolescence, and now their adult concerns have become national obsessions.

Landon Jones
The Expectations Were Great

An Isolated Generation. The Beatles, Woodstock, the "youth ghettos" that grew up around college centers all served to reinforce the unity and identity in numbers experienced by a generation whose sheer size had cut it off from the preceding generation.

"The baby boomers were trained in groups. They looked not within themselves or even to their parents for guidance but to their peer group. They had an appreciation for the common good that was hitherto unknown in a country of individualists." Later, as they struggled to squeeze into the work force, they rejected the work ethic of their parents for self-fulfillment and self-awareness.

Other points made by "Great Expectations":

- As the baby boomers grew out of diapers, advertisers looked at the figures and discovered that American mothers had created the biggest market in history.

- The real fact is that the crime wave of the sixties was in large part a fraud. The individual crimes were real enough, to be sure, but what seemed to be a nationwide breakdown in law and order was a predictable result of the coming-of-age of the baby boom generation.

- When historians look back on our times, one event that will surely stand out will be the large numbers of baby-boom women who made working part of their lifelong experience. That in fact has given the baby boom one more unique distinction: it was the last generation to be reared by housewives.

- Nearly one-half of all the children born today will spend a meaningful portion of their lives before 18 in single-parent families. If a child is living with two adults, they are increasingly less likely to be his or her biological parents.

- Between now and the end of the century, the baby boom generation will be preparing us for the reign of the old. With it will come what in many ways will be a restoration of the power and position of the elderly in society.

Predictions for the Future. Mr. Jones presents a fairly sober view of the future as the baby boomers, ranging in age from 16 to 34 in 1980, move on into middle and old age and are followed by the "baby bust" generation. Although a Superclass of baby boomers will enjoy the fruits of two incomes and ample leisure, the declining years could be a time of great loneliness for this generation.

Having "turned their children over to day care centers and schools and their elders over to their apartments or that omnipresent companion of old age, TV, the after 40 baby-boom generation will be abandoned by both."

Moreover, he says, the opportunities offered by the baby-boom age may be overshadowed in the long run by the formidable burden this same generation will dump on the nation's social services. "Social Security is the economic backbone of the aged, but even with 100 million workers presently contributing, the system cannot hope to bear up under the enormous pressures that will be generated by the baby-boom elderly."

Mr. Jones is able to write about the baby-boom generation in the third person objective, because he himself was born in 1943, just ahead of the boom. A voracious reader as a child, he graduated from Princeton University in 1966, having majored in English. He worked for Time magazine, observing the baby boom in action in "back of the book" stories on education and lifestyle.

But it was as editor of the Princeton Alumni Weekly from 1969-74 that he gained the most vivid impressions of "a lot of baby boomers really raising hell on the campus." Having thought about why they were different, and having discovered that in the 50's, 60's and 70's it was all along the same group of people, he set out to write this book in the summer of 1978, taking time off from his present job as Senior Editor at People magazine to do so. Mr. Jones benefited from research being done at the Office of Population Research at the University and the encouragement of a number of Princeton residents, all of whom are given credit in the acknowledgements. "Great Expectations: America and the Baby Boom Generation" is an alternate selection of the Book of the Month Club and a History Book Club Alternate.

Congress Supports Inflation; Discounts Dollar

In 1885, even as Dr. William Grant prepared his scalpel for the first American appendectomy on Mary Gartside in Iowa, Congress was preparing an operation of its own - trimming the silver backing U.S. currency by 15%. And just as Dr. Grant's efforts carried on a tradition of medical experimentation and progress - the Congress supported a tradition of inflation that has been the hallmark of our currency both before and since.

The cartoon at the left shows public reaction to the inflation created when that Congress backed an 85 cent paper dollar with promises of solvency. You need only compare today's prices with those of 1885 to see how well those promises were kept.

Inflation and deficit spending have become a way of life in the United States for government, for business and for many consumer. But there remain a core of determined individuals who refuse to let national fiscal disaster be the key to their personal ruin. These people have historically turned to precious metals to protect themselves against inflation. ## Princeton Regional School

HIGHLIGHTS

"Highlights" gives highlights, overviews, insights and announcements relating to the Princeton Regional Schools. Sponsored and prepared by the Parent Teacher Organization, it will appear alternate weeks in TOWN TOPICS. Material is gathered by six reporters—one for each school—and edited by Sheila MacNelle. Anyone with events to announce or ideas to suggest is invited to call Mrs. MacNelle at 924-3868.

This week HIGHLIGHTS presents letters to the community from all six PTO presidents outlining each PTO's concerns and goals for this year.

PRINCETON HIGH SCHOOL. The PRS-PTO's latest fund raising venture is a PHS School-Year Calendar for '80-'81. Its pages are rapidly filling with activities: a reception for local authors in the school library, a grand opening of the new Gym, and a staff-community dance are included on the schedule.

Parents will serve with staff and students on school committees dealing with class rank and open campus, as well as in other ways suggested by principal John Sakala. Parents will also give time as adult partners in the student store, and will help with the athletic program in the newly developed Friends of PHS Athletics. Enthusiasm with the school's "new look" has given us all an added impetus in pursuing our goal: excellence through close cooperation of home, school and community. Nancy DeMeglio.

JOHN WITHERSPOON. This year the JW PTO will continue to offer support to parents, students, teachers and administrators in order to enrich the educational experience of our children. We envision doing this in several ways: 1) By providing "people power" we will be filling the essential jobs within the school of library volunteer, room parent, resource person and career model for career explorations. We will continue to initiate programs tailored to meet specific needs. For example, the Sixth Grade New Game Happening was organized by the PTO to enable sixth graders to get to know each other. Our Pot Luck Supper in January is planned to meet the need of parents to get acquainted and feel a part of the school.

2) By raising money, we hope to provide for educational activities which might not occur if we didn't help finance them. Our two big fundraisers will be a Student-Faculty Basketball Game in February and a Super Saturday on May 16. In all our fundraising, we believe in the fun and hope to raise $5,000, while at the same time generating a feeling of cooperation and school spirit. The money will go towards field trips, assemblies, environmental education and the starting of a school newspaper. We look forward to an exciting year. Marge Smith.

COMMUNITY PARK. The CP PTO is working in several areas to enrich the school experience of our children this year: 1) Parents are represented on district committees such as the USE Committee and the Gifted and Talented Committee. 2) Parents are helping provide special activities—such as the art print exchange, book swap and winter luncheon programs.

3) Volunteers provide services in the library, the classrooms and at special events such as Field Day, bicycle inspections and swimming. 4) Evening family events are planned, as well as evening parent-teacher programs such as the Nov. 19 panel on drug use in Princeton. Our PTO board feels that it is good for children to know that their parents are involved in their school. We hope our activities will not only enrich our children's days but will also enhance the sense of community among the staff and families of our school. Peggy Killmer.

JOHNSON PARK. The JP PTO has three main goals for this year. First and foremost is our concern for continued educational excellence in our neighborhood. We are concerned about the disruption to the entire district once a school is closed and redistricting of all the remaining students begins. Another concern we have is that of class size. What will consolidation do to that? Will we have a shift in principals again? John Sakala at the High School is the only untenured principal we have. Are we to lose him?

Second, we look forward to the continuing close involvement of the parents. Our first large-scale volunteer effort will be our International Dinner on Nov. 22, to be closely followed by a Winter Carnival. Third, we hope to focus away from the "getting" aspects of our lives and direct our children's attention towards the joys and rewards of giving. This we'll try to accomplish through community service efforts such as visits with the elderly at Merwick and perhaps a recorder concert by our children in this year's pilot music program, Eva Collins.

LITTLEBROOK. This year the PTO is planning to improve our school grounds in honor of our 25th anniversary year. Working closely with Mr. Petrucci and physical education teacher Mr. Gilbert, we will improve existing play equipment, undertake some landscaping projects and review the safety of all play areas. In addition to the traditional PTO services we are organizing an extensive mini-course program to be presented during the noontime recess in winter months. We expect to develop a "library" of parents with expertise in special areas so that teachers may use them for curriculum supplementation.

We are proud of Littlebrook's welcoming atmosphere and will continue our efforts to broaden the base of volunteers so that all the school community is actively involved in our school. We will also assist, if necessary, in the smooth transition of incoming students to L.B. should there be redistricting. Mary O'Shaughnessy.

RIVERSIDE. Art and science will receive special treatment at RS this year. On Art Day, local artists will come for the whole day to do creative projects with the children in different areas of art. On Science Day, community scientists will come in and work with students on experiments in physics, zoology, geology or chemistry. During Book Week there will be a book swap and assemblies led by authors. The International Program will bring parents who have lived in other lands to share information about customs, food and costumes of these countries. Mini-courses will again be offered to the 4-5's in winter. Fund raising for these programs will include this week's poster auction.

The PTO is also involved in the Lyn Gelperin Nature Education Fund, which provides for nature walks, field and camping trips, nature exhibits and study areas.

A new book by Dr. Debora Phillips (with Robert Judd), "Sexual Confidence: Discovering the Joys of Intimacy," is described as "slowing down the rush to bed, and enjoying courtship, romance and necking."

Dr. Phillips, associate clinical professor of psychiatry, teaches human sexuality at Temple University Medical School and has a private practice through her Princeton Center for Behaviour Therapy.

Today's "sexual revolution," Dr. Phillips writes, has produced "sex without intimacy, sex without pleasure." What she proposes is a new kind of sexual revolution called "sexual confidence," in which sex becomes a "magnificent emotional adventure, as well as a delicious physical pleasure."

She writes about unlearning habits of jealousy, anxiety and guilt, and learning — or re-learning — others. The book devotes a chapter to "The Basics," including instruction on how to neck and comments on the importance of courtship. Toward the end of the book, she asks "Where did pleasure get its dirty name?", offers suggestions for parents on infants, children, adolescents and sex, and concludes by writing that "Sexual confidence is sharing the pleasure of life."

The book, published by Houghton Mifflin, is available in Princeton book stores.

Regardless of one's political affiliations, I consider your picture of the Anderson and Lucey headstones, in a recent issue of your newspaper, to be in extremely poor taste. How would you react if your ancestral tombstone had been used as a background for a feeble political joke?

Window Treatments. Heat loss through conventional doors and windows can be eliminated by various energy-saving methods. The Defender Energy Corp. makes an interior acrylic storm panel, which can be cut to your window size and easily installed with a self-stick weatherstrip frame to transform regular windows into thermal insulated windows. Kits containing clear plastic sheets for exterior installation are also available.

College Inn Diner Closes After 11 Years; New Restaurant to Open in Two Weeks

The College Inn Diner run after a two-month respite, by Trudy and Frank leased Andy's Diner which Pietrinfeno at 175 Nassau had been empty for three Street for 11 years closed Saturday.

Vittles, a new restaurant operated by former Whole Earth Center manager Jeff White and his wife Harriet, will open in its place on or about November 17. The Whites plan to expand the breakfast and lunch business offered by the Pietrinfenos to include mid-afternoon tea and dinner with a bring-your-own bottle option encouraged. Although Vittles will not be designated a health food restaurant as such, the menu is expected to emphasize whole grain and vegetarian selections.

The Pietrinfenos are leaving the restaurant business after 23 years of running coffee shops at three different locations on Nassau Street. In 1957, they purchased the Nassau Coffee Shop from Borden Castanea at 154 Nassau Street as an opportunity to do something together as a couple. Nassau Coffee Shop was next door to the Public Library in Bainbridge House where PJ's Pancake House is now. It was a place where youngsters gathered for vanilla or cherry eokes on the way to or from the Library.

After nine years, unable to renew the lease, the Pietrinfenos moved to a restaurant next to the First National Bank, which they called the Prince Town Coffee Shop. They later sold the business to Buxton's, and —Barbara L. Johnson

BUSINESS

In and Around Princeton

OPEN HOUSE PLANNED

In Kingston. The Kingston Business Association (KBA) will sponsor an Open House on Saturday and Sunday, November 15 and 16.

MERCHANTS of the Association will be host to visitors in "pre-holiday" style, displaying their specialities, demonstrating crafts and providing holiday shopping advice.

The hours are 11 to 5 on Saturday and noon to 4 on Sunday. The public is invited to ask questions of the merchants and learn something of their trade. Participating members will be identified by a display of balloons.

For further information, call Mary Etta Owen, 921-7164.

TWO WIN BUNCH In Pie-Guessing Contest. Edward Rogowski of Princeton and John McManus of Somerset have been awarded Sunday brunches for two by Jeff Lief, general manager of the Nassau Inn.

They guessed correctly the number of pies — 140 — that could be baked from the big pumpkin that has been on display in the Inn lobby.

LUNCHEON PLANNED

By Chamber of Commerce. State Senator Walter E. Foran will address members and guests of the Chamber of Commerce at a luncheon meeting on Wednesday, November 12, at the Nassau Inn. He represents the 14th District, which includes parts of Hunterdon, Mercer, Middlesex and Morris counties.

Sen. Foran has been employed by the Dubois Chemical Division of the W.R. Grace Company for the past 31 years. He was elected to the General Assembly in 1969, and re-elected in 1971, 1973, and 1975. In November of 1977, he was elected to the Senate.

Call the Chamber office, 921-7676, to make reservations. The meeting is sponsored by the Chamber's Legislative Committee as part of its governmental awareness program.

EARNINGS REBOUND

At Atlas Corp. Atlas Corporation, whose corporate headquarters are at 353 Nassau Street, had a net income of $1,339,000, or 45 cents per share, for the three-month period ending September 30, compared to net of $63,000, or two cents per share, for the same quarter in 1979. Sales and other income aggregated $20,366,000 for the three months ending September 30, 1980, compared to $21,666,000 for the same quarter of the prior fiscal year.

Edward R. Farley, Jr., chairman and president, attributed the company's improved financial results in the 1980 quarter primarily to increased profitability of Atlas' uranium operations and to reduced interest costs. The average sales price of uranium concentrate delivered by the company in the 1980 period was higher than in the comparable quarter the previous year, while production costs were lower, he said.

Mr. Farley stated that, barring unforeseen circumstances, Atlas expects that the quarter ending December 31, 1980 also will be a profitable one for the company. In the like quarter the previous year, Atlas reported a deficit of $670,000, or 23 cents a share.

TO AUTOGRAPH BOOK

NEW SERVICE OFFERED

Takeout Sandwiches at Toto's.

An old establishment at 74 Witherspoon Street announced a new service this week. Toto's Market is entering the takeout sandwich business.

Albert Toto Jr., the prime mover in the family business founded 68 years ago by his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Flory Toto Sr., says the decision is a natural offshoot from this summer when Toto's started to sell potato salad, macaroni salad and cole slaw. "We got a lot of requests from shoppers asking that we have sandwiches to go along with them."

As might be expected from a store that sells cold cuts and cheeses, Toto's has a built-in selection. Smoked, boiled, baked or hot ham sandwiches; tuna, shrimp salad, smoked salmon, salami, roast beef, turkey breast, etc. — but no hoagies yet. "That's another business in itself," said Albert.

Only top-quality Thumann's cold cuts — the same that Toto's sells by the pound — will be offered on a choice of bread or rolls, to be washed down by soda, milk, juices or a bottle of cold Perrier water.

Also available, reports Albert, will be old-fashioned jumbo dill pickles, the kind that come out of a barrel. No sandwich meat will be pre-sliced; everything will be cut to order — the same as with prime meat.

Fresh prime meat cut to order remains the heart and soul of Toto's Market. Occasionally, customers look bewildered when told they have to order ahead, Albert said. When they realize the difference from pre-cut, they understand. "When you cut a steak or roast into smaller pieces it immediately starts to drain and lose blood. This causes the meat to dry out and lose some of its nutritional value. It's the same with ground meat."

Ordering two to three hours ahead for a cut of meat was one of the things Albert insisted on when he became the third generation to join the store 14 years ago, after having just turned 20. "We got some static from the older customers," he recalled.

What was happening, he said, was that so many customers were coming in off the street and ordering that customers who had called an order in had to wait until late in the afternoon before it could be filled.

Decision Made. "We had to make a decision; cut the meat ahead or insist on a two-to-three hour notice. It's worked out very well for us and the customer — 99 percent of the time," Albert said.

For the record, Toto's specializes in prime, corn fed beef, milk fed veal, pork loins, lamb and fresh poultry. Among specialty items are fresh calves liver, veal sweetbreads, Cornish hens, lambs, veal or beef kidneys and pork tenderloins.

Smoked hams are always in stock and fresh hams are available by special order. For Thanksgiving and Christmas, Toto's has fresh turkeys and capons, frozen geese during Christmas and frozen duckling year 'round. Also available during the holiday season by special order are pheasant and quail.

Because every indicator says meat prices will rise in the near future, Albert says that business has picked up considerably in the sale of hind quarters — another special order item. "There's a considerable saving," he said, "if the family uses all the cuts that come from a hind quarter."

Hind quarters at Toto's average 180 to 200 pounds (before being trimmed) and Toto's will cut to each family's specifications. Cut, wrapped and labeled — ready for the freezer.

New Additions. Two additions to Toto's are a line of imported jellies and preserves from England by Wilkin Sons, Ltd. "All very expensive (over $3 a jar) but all very tasty," and California Wine Vinegar, containing actual sprigs of herbs, including dill, oregano, rosemary, tarragon and basil. Ideal for salads and cooking.

For pasta lovers, Toto's has DeCecco, which is made in Abruzzo, Italia, located in the central part off the Adriatic Sea coastline — not far from where his mother, who came to this country when she was 5, was born. She has worked at Toto's for some 40 years; his father, Albert Toto Sr. for 50.

Spinach noodles, spinach spaghetti and egg noodles are some of the DeCecco products. There are also fresh farm eggs; Bencheley all-natural tea bags (regular and decaffeinated); fresh coffee beans, including French Roast, Mocha Java, Chocolate Almond and Columbian decaffeinated. (Toto's does not grind them, however.)

Choose from among Louis Sherry, Schrafft's, Haagen-Dazs or Breyer's ice creams; fresh vegetables and fresh fruits which are not in season in this area, such as strawberries, cantaloupe, honeydew melons and pineapple. Or from 35 to 40 cheeses, most of them from

Help Us to Help You!

Pinched between rising costs and a lowered level of giving from the Princeton community, the Princeton First Aid and Rescue Squad, which stands ready day and night to assist in any emergency, is itself in need of help.

Throughout its 40-year history, the Squad has relied on contributions from grateful donors to meet its expenses. Until April of this year, it was the only Squad in the area to receive no municipal assistance for capital outlays or for operating expenses.

Faced with a severe shortage of daytime personnel who could answer calls in the Lifemobile with the speed that is a hallmark of the night-time response from its volunteer members, the Squad sought and received municipal funding for two daytime paramedics. The program is considered a success, both by the Medical Center, where the paramedics work part of their day, and by the Squad, which takes pride in its professionalism, but funds for it are not guaranteed after April 1, 1981.

To keep pace with advances in medical technology and with state requirements, the Squad must continue to make outlays for capital improvements. High on the priority list are the replacement of the older Lifemobile chassis, repairs and modifications to the disaster control truck and the purchase of additional communications equipment.

Meanwhile inflation is making itself felt in the Squad's operating budget. Insurance costs have risen 30 percent, fuel costs 40 percent, and utility costs almost 60 percent.

The Princeton Rescue Squad has been serving the community since 1939. It has done its share to save lives and ease pain and suffering.

Now it is time for those who live and work in Princeton to do their share. The Squad needs your help as a volunteer. It needs your donations as a citizen.

Collection of Books by Princeton Authors Will Embellish Library at Princeton High

The sheer volume — and that doesn't mean a book printed on thin paper — is astonishing. It almost substantiates the legend that everybody in Princeton has written a book.

Next Monday at 8 p.m. in the new library of Princeton High School, there will be a reception honoring Princeton authors who have donated copies of their books to the library. The public is invited to attend.

Back in March, Betty Sapoch gave a coffee party for John Sakala, the new principal of Princeton High School. When guests asked Mr. Sakala what he'd like for the remodeled school, he mentioned the needs of the expanded library. Ralph Schoenstein offered to donate copies of his books, including his new one, "Citizen Paul."

About the same time, Nancy Henkel conceived the idea of Friends of Princeton High School Library, collected some money and, with a group of friends, began buying books at rummagesales.

Committee Formed. The two ideas came together, and now there is a committee. It consists of Mr. Schoenstein and his wife, Judy; Mrs. Sapoch and her husband, Jack; Mrs. Henkel, Yvonne Bleiman, Betty Cleveland, Nancy DiMeglio and two high school staff members, Florence Burke and Carmen Prezioso.

The committee sent out letters to 260 writers, and even then probably missed a few. So far, over 200 books have been received.

George Kennan sent his "Memoirs: 1950-63" and "American Diplomacy: 1900-1950." There is one Nobel Prize winner — Sir W. Arthur Lewis with "Evolution of the International Economic Order" — and at least one other who doesn't happen to have sent his book around yet.

Debra Phillips, in her book, advises "How to Fall Out of Love" and George and Suzanne Fremon in theirs, ask the car-owner, "Why Trade it In?"

A Well-Traveled Man. In his letter of thanks on behalf of everyone at the school, Mr. Sakala recalls that he learned in school about the French student, Francois Quesnay, who had to walk from his home to Paris to beg books. Over the 18 years he studied to be a physician, he is said to have walked 50,000 miles.

"Your gifts may not make our students, like Quesnay, more physically fit, but they will, thanks to your wrote "with thanks for the

WRITTEN A BOOK? Ralph Schoenstein (second from right) has done just that, following up with presentation of several Schoenstein books — autographed — to the new Princeton High School library. generosity, be able to have immediate access to as fine a collection of literature as any school could ever hope for."

Carlos Baker, the acknowledged authority on Ernest Hemingway, has presented several volumes, including his "Ernest Hemingway: A Life Story," "Hemingway: The Writer as Artist" and Professor Baker's own novel, "The Land of Rumbelow."

Paul Ramsey gave several of his volumes on religion and philosophy. David Popeno sent the library a sociology text.

Nobody has made a count, but it's possible that most of the donors had — or have — children in the high school, and four of the authors themselves were students there, familiar indeed with the crowded old Gothic library and the need for a big, bright new one. Alumni contributors are John McPhee, Alan Tucker, Sally Goldfarb and Betsy Hartmann.

Father of Three. Sally Goldfarb is represented by her guide, "by and for students," called "Inside the Law Schools." A law school student herself, Sally has only been out of the high school a few years.

Many donors inscribed their warm gratitude. Freeman Dyson on the flyleaf of his "Disturbing the Universe," education you gave my school's own faculty, and a former member are among the donors. William Bux gave copies of his three textbooks on computers. Former history teacher Henry Drewry and his wife, Cecelia, have given their book, "Afro-American History: Past and Present," and Mr. Drewry gave another book, "America Is," of which he is co-author.

Grateful Librarian. Herbert Highfields, head of the high

News Of The THEATRES

'THE WARRIORS'

At Kresge, "...like a dose of visual rock 'n' roll," Time Magazine's film critic said that about "The Warriors" and Princeton audiences may judge for themselves when the film is shown this Thursday and Friday in Kresge Auditorium (Princeton University campus) as the next offering in Movies from McCarter.

Next Monday, Tuesday and Thursday — November 10, 11 and 13 — Kresge will screen the documentary, "The Trials of Alger Hiss." Screening time is 7:30.

Although "The Warriors" was one of last year's most controversial films, most audiences never had a chance to find out why, because it was quickly withdrawn when isolated incidents of violence followed screenings in inner-city Los Angeles and other cities.

A New York gang movie, "The Warriors" follows the members of a street gang as they fight their way from the Bronx to their own turf in Coney Island. Critics usually say that, although the film has wooden acting, flat dialogue and hardly one believable moment, it is at least "handsome" trash.

John Lowenthal will personally introduce his film.

was," Johnny Lyon special matinee has been remembered, "that once you graduated high school, it was all over."

He got started late, just singing around at parties until he joined the Sonny Kenn Blues Band when he was 16. Teen-age musicians drifted from group to group. Bands changed because the players got bored, and because they wanted to experiment.

"At 16 or 17," he says, "you were in a band to have fun, make a little money and pick up chicks."

In the early 1970s, he joined with Bruce Springsteen in "Dr. Zoom and the Sonic Boom." A succession of bands followed. Last year, Johnny and guitarist Billy Rush did all-original material for the first time, in the album "The Jukes." The latest album is "Love is a Sacrifice." It was totally produced, written and conceived by Johnny Lyon and Billy Bush. They will head the group of ten musicians and singers that will come to Dillon Saturday.

PART X

The Problem: How does a store develop new product lines?

If it's "IN" most stores will devote unlimited space, time and money to current fads. New Product lines are developed solely on a "what's hot" basis.

The LANDAU Solution: Let product lines evolve, not based on rate of sales, but directed by customer response and feedback after purchase.

Our Liberty of London collection is a perfect example. Two years ago we started ordering a few shirts made of Liberty of London, 100% cotton print fabric. The customers who purchased these first shirts were so delighted with their initial purchases, they returned to buy other items made of this unique fabric.

Landau sensed a very special product line by sleeping somewhere in London. We wrote to Liberty and were directed to their New York office. The Liberty of London U.S. headquarters directed us to several small manufacturers working with their fabric.

Our Liberty of London collection today has grown to include 100% cotton long sleeve shirts, skirts, long and short sleeve dresses, silk scarves, cotton ties and our just-arrived wool challis shirts, skirts and dresses.

Landau's Liberty of London line continues to grow...because our customers keep returning for new items of this great fabric. We sense something very special. It's that simple.

The play, by Sheldon Harnick, consists of three acts and three separate stories. "Adam and Eve" describes the famous pair in the Garden of Eden. "The Lady and the Tiger" has a young man choosing the correct door in order to win the girl, not the tiger. "Passionella" is about a Cinderella who gets her wish.

Sue Tapper, who teaches theatre arts at Stuart, will direct. Robin DeKlein, who directs Stuart's upper school chorus, will be music director.

SCULPTOR EXHIBITS
At Princeton Day School. Using recycled materials, steel parts, wood and rope, sculptor John Battle creates forms that are sometimes figurative and sometimes formally abstract, occasionally humorous and even touching.

A graduate of Princeton Day School and a former resident of Princeton, Battle was graduated from Dartmouth in 1975. His new show will open in the Anne Reid Art Gallery of PDS with a reception this Sunday from 5-7. The artist will be present, and will also be in the Gallery on Sundays, November 16 and 23, from 1-5. Weekday Gallery hours are 8:30 to 3:30 and the Battle exhibit will continue through December 4.

Mr. Battle is now working in New York following a successful association with the South End Boston artists. His one-man exhibit "Arctic Hunters," attracted favorable attention in Boston last year. His most recent one-man show was held at the Helen Schlieren Gallery in Boston in May.

ROMAN ART ACQUIRED
By University Museum. The University Art Museum has acquired a bronze portrait-head of a Roman matron that has been well known since its discovery in 1879 in the Italian town of Chiavenna between Lake Como and the Swiss border.

For many years in the collection of Fahim Kouchakji of New York, it has been on loan in several museums. Princeton was able to acquire it with the Fowler McCormick, Class of 1921 Fund.

The head is life-size, cast in bronze and intended for insertion into a bust or full-length figure, the drapery of which would neatly conceal the junction below the neck. It represents an elderly woman whose hair has been pulled back and braided, the braids coiled on top of her head and held in place by a net.

The eyeballs are indicated by silver inlay and the pupils suggested by crescents cut into the bronze irises. Through coins and portraits of members of the Imperial family, it is known that elaborate coiffures, some of them extraordinary creations, were worn by ladies of fashion in the first half of the second century AD. It has been suggested that the bronze head now in Princeton might represent Matidia, niece of Trajan. In any case, it is to be dated in the decade of AD 120-130, with possible allowance for the fact that an older woman might retain to a later date a style of hairdressing past its period of high fashion.

PAA PLANS TRIP

To Brooklyn Museum. The Princeton Art Association will sponsor a bus trip to the Brooklyn Museum on Wednesday, November 12. For registration and information, call 921-9173.

The Brooklyn Museum is noted for its extensive permanent collections of African, Oceanic and New World Cultures; Oriental, Egyptian, and American Art; and Decorative Art, Costumes and Textiles. A special exhibition of Brooklyn Abstract Artists and a showing of Judy Chicago's "The Dinner Party" is particularly notable.

Critics, as well as the general public, are either enraptured or enraged by "The Dinner Party." The theme of this monumental sculpture is a symbolic celebration of the achievements of real and mythological women through the ages. It is carried out in a massive, triangular shaped structure which took five years and 400 volunteers to construct. Although no lectures are offered with the exhibition, an acousto-guide narrated by the artists, is available.

The Brooklyn Botanical Gardens are directly across from the Museum. Special fall displays of flowers and foliage are available and entrance is free.

CRAFTSMEN SELECTED

For December Show. Six residents of this area are among some 60 craftsmen selected to participate in a state-wide craft show in Paterson on December 6 and 7. The show is being sponsored by New Jersey Designer Craftsmen in cooperation with The Great Falls Development Corporation.

The six are Constance Bracci-McIndoe from Hopewell, who works in clay; E. Berry Jones, also of Hopewell, clay stoneware and porcelain; Stephanie H. Katz, Princeton Junction, woven and printed textiles; Susan Kittredge, south Brunswick, fiber; Ursula Pedersen, Hopewell, clay; and John Shedd, Rocky Hill, clay.

CURRENT EXHIBITS

Princeton Art Association artists who will be exhibiting their work during the month of November include Jane Feldman who will have an exhibit of paintings at the New Jersey National Bank, 194 Nassau Street, and Margaret Scott, who will show her collages at the First National Bank of Central Jersey, Route 516, Rocky Hill.

Notre Dame's had 6 — John Huarte, Paul Hornung, Johnny Lattner, Leon Hart, Johnny Lujack and Angelo Bertelli — and the school that's had the second-most is Ohio State with 4 — Archie Griffin, Hopalong Cassady, Vic Janowicz and Les Horvath.

One of the most amazing teams ever to play in the National Football League was the fabled Duluth Eskimos of 1926 ... ## Tigers Will Place Four-Game Winning Streak On Line against Maine (Who?) Here Saturday

TIGERS' LEADING SCORER: Junior tailback Mike Neary off on 14-yard touchdown run against Penn in third period. He later caught a scoring pass from Mark Lockenmeyer to give Princeton 28-21 triumph and raise his season's total to six touchdowns.

Several years ago, when the Ivy League presidents agreed that their football teams could indeed play ten games a season (except when there are only nine Saturdays between the third week in September and Thanksgiving), Princeton schedule-maker Sam Howell cast about for a potential opponent with an open date on November 8, 1980.

Ideal Spot for an Upset. Maine, no better than 2-9 last fall but 4-5 and boisterous this year, will come to Palmer Stadium in a perfect spot to achieve a surprise victory. The game will be the Black Bears' first against an Ivy League team in four decades, and they would like nothing better than to take home a

It was not an easy task — even the conservative Ivy Leaguers book nearly a decade ahead of time. The answer proved to be the University of Maine, available because Vermont had suddenly discontinued football, and that's why this Saturday the Tigers will play a new opponent for the first time in 27 years.

From 1954 to date, Princeton scheduled the seven other Ivies, plus Rutgers and Colgate. This will be a two-game stand with Maine, which is on the Princeton schedule in the same slot next fall.

SPORTS

In Princeton

For the next two years, Lafayette will come here as the Tigers' eighth opponent, while in 1984 the calendar dictates that the schedule will shrink to nine games again. In years past, football matches staged on the Saturday after Thanksgiving proved undesirable because of the long weekend, and today they would create a serious overlap with winter sports activity.

Ivy League Forecast

Princeton over Maine. If Tigers want it enough.

Dartmouth over Columbia. Lions short on all counts.

Yale over Cornell. No one will stop Elis this year.

Harvard over William & Mary. Crimson has quarterback back.

Villanova over Penn. Lack of passing game hurts Quakers

PHS Faces Lawrence Away Saturday Morning

Following Easy 35-0 Victory over McCorristin

Princeton High School had two objectives when it faced the McCorristin football team under the lights Friday in Trenton.

The first was to win, of course, and stay in contention in the Colonial Valley Conference race. The second, said PHS coach Jim Beachell, was to try to let tailback Paul Miles get 191 yards which would give him 3,000 in his high school career. The Little Tigers, as it turned out, batted .500.

PHS won the game easily, 35-0, building a 28-0 halftime lead against the punchless — and winless — Iron Mikes. It was Princeton's fifth triumph against one setback.

Miles scored twice, sweeping end from 18 yards out and diving over from the two with 1:37 left in the first half. He also ran over a two-point conversion after his first score for 14 points for the night.

But Miles did not amass those 191 yards. He had 97 at the end of the half and finished with 143. It did push him over the 1,000-yard mark for the year with three games left.

Lawrence on Saturday. Next for the Little Tigers will be a Saturday morning game against Lawrence High system.

Miles' 14 points against McCorristin give him 96 for the season. He trails Northern Burlington's Willie Drewrey, who tallied three times in last week's 42-0 rout of Hightstown, and now has 102 points on 17 TDs. Miles has 14 touchdowns and six two-point conversions.

But Beachell says that the Cardinals have a good passing attack and are well coached. "They've always been well coached for the number of players they have."

While PHS is expected to stop Lawrence, it also finds it needs help if it is to win any CVC honors. When West Windsor defeated Ewing, 13-7, last week, it remained undefeated in league play — the only blemish a tie with Lawrence early in the season.

The Pirates have two league games left with McCorristin and Hightstown, neither of which is likely to pull an upset. PHS, after Lawrence, has one

PHS is also one of five Group 2 teams that are in the running for the post-season NJSIAA state tournament.

The others: West Windsor, Voorhees, Monroe and Spotswood. Four teams will be picked, based on a complicated "Quality points" system.

Miles' 14 points against McCorristin give him 96 for the season. He trails Northern Burlington's Willie Drewrey, who tallied three times in last week's 42-0 rout of Hightstown, and now has 102 points on 17 TDs. Miles has 14 touchdowns and six two-point conversions.

No Contest. PHS had everything its own way against McCorristin, which gained only 25 yards rushing and whose only first down in the game was the result of a penalty. Indeed, the only score mounted by the home team came on the second play of the game when defensive back Dean Pesarini picked off a Dave Dinella pass in the flat and returned it 24 yards to the Princeton 29.

On a fourth-and-three,

SCORES ON 67-YARDER: Larry McKellar, 6-1, 200-lb. defensive end, is also a fullback and scored on a 67-yard run against McCorristin.

McCorristin quarterback Bob Sawyer, who spent most of the night trying to dodge a horde of white-shirted Little Tigers, was thrown for a five-yard loss.

PHS got on the board with 6:20 left in the opening period when Lamont Fletcher, who entered the game with a 14-yard per carry average, threaded his way through the center of the McCorristin defensive line, broke into the clear and was off on a 54-yard TD jaunt — a good chunk of the 331 yards PHS earned rushing.

The rest of the PHS scoring went like this: Miles, 18-yard sweep; Larry McKellar, 67-yard run down the sidelines and Miles, two-yard dive, the latter two both in the second period; and Judd Petrone, 20-yard pass from junior quarterback Terry Phox, third period.

Beachell substituted freely in the second half. Dinella ended up playing as a defensive back when Phox took over at quarterback and junior Wayne Davis took over for Miles after he had passed the 1,000-yard plateau.

Davis had 25 yards on three

Hilton and Travel Planning are both 1-1 and the Lions are 1-2.

In the senior division, Princeton Fuel Oil defeated First National Bank, 13-6, to lead in their series, 2-1.

The game's only score in the first half came on a 60-yard drive on Fuel Oil's first possession. The bulk of the yardage was gained by Jeff Guest and Bruce Cortelyou on the ground but the payoff play was a 10-yard aerial from James Russell to Freddie Young.

Owen Kellner, Mike Elliott, Mike Sierra, Jim Opperman and Franz Mussant led the Bank's defense.

In the second half, Fuel Oil upped its lead to 13-0 when Guest scored on a 57-yard run and Cortelyou ran over the extra point. The victors' defensive unit was led by Gabby Ondetti, Andy Geller, Pete Cook, P.T. Navarro, Bill Stryker, Steve Thomas, Keith Green, Matt Pope and Ernie Antonelli.

Kellner enabled the Bank to avoid a shutout on his 30-yard interception return to close out the scoring.

carries. "He's just waiting to go," said Beachell. Unfortunately, he's just behind one of the best backs in the state."

The shutout was the third in six games for the PHS defense and probably its best effort of the year. Beachell told Iron Mike coach Kevin Hardiman that he felt his secondary was one of the best around.

Hardiman agreed. "I was really impressed with their defense. Everybody knows how good their offense is, but their defense played very well."

That 10-8 upset by West Windsor — the only time PHS has been held to less than four touchdowns in a game — looms larger and larger.

Tiger skin to hang in their trophy case.

A member of Division I-AA in the Eastern College Athletic Conference (one level below that in which Princeton and its other opponents compete), Maine has defeated the Merchant Marine Academy, Rhode Island, Lafayette and Northeastern, while losing to Lehigh, B.U., New Hampshire, U Mass and Connecticut. While comparative scores are not all that valid, they lost in the final minute to Connecticut, which in turn had beaten a good Colgate team.

QUICK LOOK AT MAINE

OFFENSE: Can be explosive on the ground. Built around fine running of halfback Lorenzo Bouier, who is averaging 155 yards a game.

DEFENSE: Ten starters from last year provide experience but most teams have scored two or more touchdowns this season against Black Bears.

CHIEF ASSET: Veteran backfield, with Bouier as its major threat.

CHIEF PROBLEM: Containing versatile offense directed by Mark Lockenmeyer.

TYPE OF ATTACK: Multiple I.

Despite the loss of their top two quarterbacks for the season to injuries, the Black Bears move the ball with considerable ability. If the Tigers tend to relax against this non-league foe while thinking of their final games against Yale and Dartmouth, their hard-earned four-game winning streak will be abruptly shattered.

TIGERS 4, PENN 3

Edge to Princeton Offense. In a see-saw contest which saw seven touchdowns scored, the last one went to Princeton Saturday as the Tigers prevailed, 28-21, on a wind-swept afternoon. The victory kept intact Frank Navarro's record of never having lost to either Harvard or Penn in his three years here, and dulled a bit more memories of the five-game string of defeats the Quakers had hung on the Orange and Black starting in 1972.

It was a day the Tiger offense finally performed well for almost a full 60 minutes as it ran for 306 yards and totalled 432. Once again, however, excess penalties could have made the difference in a close game as the officials debited Princeton with 106 yards for a variety of careless infractions. To use a popular measuring stick, the Tigers have now been assessed a total since the season began in excess of the length of five football fields.

Stars of the day were quarterback Mark Lockenmeyer, under whose guidance the team has yet to lose; All-Ivy fullback Larry Van Pelt and split end Cris Crissy. Lockenmeyer completed 14 of 25 passes for 126 yards, two for touchdowns and scored a third himself.

Van Pelt had the best day of his career with 159 yards, a figure only 92 less than he had accumulated in his six previous games. His 53-yard burst through right guard which set up the victors' third score 11 minutes into the second half was the team's longest run from scrimmage this year. Crissy caught five passes to set a Princeton career mark of 81 and solidify his lead in the Ivy and ECAC statistics while keeping his ranking among the top three nationally.

Early Lead to Tigers. As it had against Harvard, Princeton scored the first time it got the ball, covering 63 yards in 15 plays. Van Pelt carried on eight of these, with the TD coming when Lock rolled right and threw to his fullback from two yards out.

The Quakers got the next two touchdowns, the first on a 78-yard march which culminated with a one-yard sneak, and the second in two

Bouier of Maine Nation's Top Back

Frank Navarro says he is one of the best backs who will be seen in Palmer Stadium during the present decade. The statistics say he's the nation's top ball carrier, with 1,398 yards in nine games and a 155 per game average.

Meet Lorenzo Bouier of Hartford, Conn., who chose last year to enroll at the University of Maine. On Saturday, while the Black Bears were running over Northeastern, 35 to 24, he carried 41 times for 302 yards.

That was Bouier's first 300-plus game, but he has had three over 200 and seven of 100 or more. Performances like that have enabled him to set the career record for yards rushing at Maine in just 20 games with a two-season total of 2,308—more than any previous back at the college had gained in four years.

plays from the 20 when they recovered a fumble caused when Lockenmeyer was hit on a pitchout to Van Pelt. Princeton then drove 70 yards to even the count before the half ended, Lockenmeyer using the option to perfection when the defense dropped back for a pass and he ran in untouched on a wide sweep right from the two.

Another long drive, this one for 77 yards with Van Pelt eating up most of it, made it 21-14, Princeton, in the third quarter. The fine running of Penn sophomore Steve Rubin (118 yards and two touchdowns) brought the visitors even as the fourth quarter opened, the Quaker halfback going 43 yards to his right against an over-shifted Princeton alignment.

The home team then earned the victory by covering 71 yards in 14 plays that consumed 6:47 on the clock. It was fourth and a yard to the end zone, Princeton doubting the straight-ahead blocking ability of its line sufficiently that it strung out a sweep right pass to tailback Mike Neary to get across the goal line. Neary had a great final 30 minutes as he ran for 92 yards, caught four passes and scored twice.

Early Lead to Tigers. As it had against Harvard, Princeton scored the first time it got the ball, covering 63 yards in 15 plays. Van Pelt carried on eight of these, with the TD coming when Lock rolled right and threw to his fullback from two yards out.

Penn's total lack of passing ability (1 for 5 for 11 yards) kept it from matching the Tigers' versatility with the ball, but there was no doubt at the end that Harry Gamble's young team had played its best game of the season here. He is starting few seniors, says he has "a team of the future" and is almost certainly right if he can develop a passer.

Both teams attempted field goals with a strong wind at their backs, Penn one of 54 yards, and Rick Wise for the Tigers one that he should have made from the 17. It was wide

Hun Football Team Wins. "I thought my football thrills were gone. Talk about an emotional high!"

There was emotion to spare Saturday when Danny Burke intercepted a Peddie pass with a minute and a half left and returned it 75 yards to give the Hun football team a pulsating 26-21 victory — its first in 14 games.

"You better believe it was sweet," said Hun coach Bill Stout, who had thought his football thrills were gone. "We finally got the monkey off our backs."

Hun will try to make it two in a row on Friday when it plays at Pingry. Pingry, which has won only twice this season, lost, 21-14, in its last start to Admiral Farragut, Hun's final opponent. "We'll be competitive for these last two," predicted Stout.

Stout gave a lot of credit to his only assistant, Bill Quirk, for getting Hun ready psychologically for Peddie, after Hun had been outscored, 109 to 8, in its previous three games.

When linebacker Rich Landis nailed the Peddie ballcarrier on the game's first two plays, Stout turned to Quirk and said, "I think we've got a ball game on our hands."

Peddie scored first on a 35-yard pass but Tim Lovering gathered in the return kickoff with his back foot on the goal line and returned it 100 yards. He broke a couple of tackles around the 20, said Stout, picked up a few key blocks and from the 45 on it was just a foot race. "He just never quit." It was Lovering's fourth TD of the season. Hun's four scores equalled its entire output in its previous five games.

Burke Goes 63 Yards. Visiting Peddie scored the next two TDs on a nine-yard run and 40-yard pass, however, to go up, 21-6. Near the end of the third period, Burke broke a dive play straight ahead over tackle and was off on a 63-yard run. Again, the try for the two-point conversion failed and Hun trailed, 21-12.

Peddie came storming back, reaching the Hun three on a fourth down. Pat Sweeney made a game-saving tackle on the one and Hun took over. After three plays, Hun still needed two yards.

Stout called time to talk things over. "I looked in their eyes and I knew we weren't going to punt," he said. He had designed a special play, using his co-captain and center on "Ewing is a fine, fine team. offense, Rich Landis. Now was the time to use it."

It was a simple blast and Landis got four yards to keep the drive going. With less than seven minutes left, Hun was apparently stalled on its 45, needing five yards and faced with a fourth down.

Ewing's opportunity came 44 seconds before the end of the half when John Steinmann took a pass on the run and beat the defending PHS back, used some fancy footwork to elude goalie Brent Robinson and banged in his 16th goal of the season into an empty net.

PHS nearly scored twice in the second period when a close-in shot from Bong Soo Kim sailed over the net and a header by Charlie Bolster almost beat Ewing goalie Ted Forst.

The play covered 55 yards, the last 25 picked up by Darvin. Hun still trailed by three when the extra point try misfired once more.

After Hun's try for an onside kick failed, Peddie took over and was on the Hun 35 when Burke intercepted. "Two kids had an angle on him and I thought he would never make it," said Stout. But Burke did, and, as Stout observed, "The rest is history."

Hun's try for the extra point was nullified by a penalty. Then from the seven, Landis hit Darvin who made a fine diving catch and Hun finally had its two-point conversion.

It was a key play, remarked Stout, because it took the field goal away from them.

Peddie, undaunted, came right back in the 90 seconds remaining. With Hun in a prevent-defense and yielding the short pass, Peddie reached the 11 before Tommy Snyder nailed the Peddie quarterback there on the last play of the game.

PHS GIRL IN FINALS
Of NJSIAA Singles. Princeton High School's unbeaten Danielle Storace has gained the finals of the NJSIAA tennis singles tournament. There were 93 entries.

Danielle, the defending state singles champion, reached the final round Sunday by defeating previously unbeaten freshman Lisa Rosimelia from Watchung Hills at the Woodbridge Racquet Club.

Storace almost didn't get a chance to defend her title. She dropped the first set to Rosimelia, 2-6, and was trailing in the second, 5-3, before rallying to win, 7-5. Rosimelia had four match points against Storace but could not win one. Storace came on strong in the third set to win, 6-1, and the match.

"Danielle proved that she had stamina," commented PHS coach Bill Humes, who watched the match. He has also seen her finalist opponent and feels that Danielle has more talent overall.

She will meet Eileen Fallon of St. Mary's (South Amboy) for the championship, also scheduled at the Woodbridge Club. She won the title last year as a sophomore at West Windsor-Plainsboro High School before moving to Princeton.

In its only match last week, PHS defeated Hun School, 4-1. Patty DiNella and Julie Schwartz won singles matches for the Little Tigers, while Liza Reed and Heather McVicker and Leah Cope and Liz Brower triumphed in doubles play. The number three singles, Rosemary Chowins, was the only loser.

The final match of the season for PHS is this Wednesday against Lawrence High Lawrence.

PHS LOSES IN SOCCER
To Ewing, 1-0. The area's top-ranked soccer team, Ewing (14-2) had to struggle Monday to defeat Princeton High School, 1-0.

"It was a helluva game," said PHS coach Ed Beacham.

Sports in Princeton

The win enabled Ewing to stay on top in the Colonial Valley Conference league where it has a one point lead over Lawrence.

For the beleaguered Little Tigers the season that was supposed to be but wasn't will end on Monday afternoon at 3:30 at home when they entertain Notre Dame. Before that, they will play Lawrence this Wednesday afternoon at Lawrence.

PHS NIPS EWING

1-0 in Field Hockey. In its third straight 1-0 victory, the Princeton High School field hockey team nipped Ewing, 1-0, Monday on a goal by Gladys Rice with three seconds left in the half.

Princeton's win, coupled with Lawrence's 1-0 shootout victory over Hopewell Valley the same day, left all three teams tied for first place in the Colonial Valley Conference with 7-3 records and means that the race will go down to the wire. All have two league games left to play. Princeton's final two opponents are Lawrence and Notre Dame.

On Friday, PHS will meet Hopewell Valley in the quarterfinals of the NJSIAA Central Jersey Group 2 state tournament. In two games this season, Hopewell won the first, 3-2, while Princeton High took the second, 2-1. HV is seeded third, PHS sixth in their division.

Last week, PHS stopped town rival Stuart, 1-0, on a short corner by Fran Johnston, assisted by Susie Gates. "We played well," said coach Joyce Jones. She cited her goalie, Marry Ally Heeg, who had 14 saves.

MEMORIAL RACE WON

In Carnegie Sailing. A new member of the Carnegie Sailing Club won the 17th annual Walter B. Jefferson Memorial Handicap race Sunday. Jeff Talan, 51 Moral Avenue, turned in the best performance based on his finishes in previous races.

Jefferson, who died in 1963, was a fierce competitor whose record did not quite match his determination to win. The club established the annual event that year as a memorial to his persistence.

Sunfish contestants finished in this order: Walt Gibson, Dick Jesser, Dan Mazzarella, Ray Dasch and Christine Bethune. John Henderson was first among the Lasers.

PLAY RESUMES

In Princeton Soccer Leagues. In the Senior League, LaVake Jewelers, the Hamilton Textiles and Nassau Savings and Loan all won last week in the Princeton Soccer Association.

Hamilton Textiles defeated Opinion Research, 6-1, Jon Soderberg preventing the losers from being shut out by scoring on a penalty kick. For the winners, Bill Scott, Rad Roberts, Tommy Foltiny and Levi Pervin all played well. Liz O'Donoghue scored both goals for LaVake, which shut out Walter B. Howe Real Estate, 2-0.

Nassau Savings and Loan blanked Obal Garden Market, 5-0, on goals by Allan Aiken, Boeie Lockwood, Rob Myslik, David Lott and Grant Prudhomme. Gallup Poll tied Hamilton Johnston, 1-1; the goals were scored by James Womack and Bruce Goodman respectively.

In the American division of the Bantam League, Z. & W. Honda won its first by edging the Princeton University Store, 1-0, on a goal by Angus Guberman. Hulit's also won, 1-0, over John T. Henderson. Nassau Hobby lost for the first time, to Cox's Store, 2-0, as Seth Meisel scored both goals. Princeton Citgo topped Grover Lumber, 2-0.

In the National division of the Bantam League, Nassau Inn overpowered F.M.C. Corporation, 5-2. Standouts for Nassau Inn were Jim Brophy, Matt Jones and Gian Joseph Scorzaro. King's Grant Real Estate shut out Terhune Orchards, 2-0, on goals by Bernard Pope and Michael Kessler.

Continuum Dynamics also won, 2-0, over Firestone Real Estate as Jarrett Bilanin and Matt Hazlett each scored. Revere Travel defeated Audrey Short-Realty World on two goals by Tim Moulton and one by Paul Procaccini.

PHS GIRLS ROUTED

In Soccer, 9-0. Ewing, the top-ranked team in the Colonial Valley Conference, scored five goals in the second half to rout Princeton High School, 9-0, on Monday. It was the second win of the year for the Blue Devils (14-2) over the Little Tigers, whose record dropped to 8-8.

In the NJSIAA South Section state tournament this week, 16th ranked PHS will oppose 17th ranked Monroe. The winner will then face top-seeded Steinert.

PDS WINS SIXTH

Friends Academy Beaten. One of the hallmarks of a good football team is its ability to continue to win when key players are sidelined with injuries. Many teams do well as long as everybody stays healthy, but falter when forced into substitutions and adjustments.

Thus, it was very fitting last Saturday that Princeton Day gained its sixth victory, the most games it has ever won in one season, despite the absence of quarterback Scott Roberts and running back

Hockey Openings Remain.

The Nassau Hockey League, offering ice hockey to boys 6 to 14, will open its 15th season at the Princeton Day School rink Saturday, November 15.

Instructional skating and intramural team competition will be conducted, as well as games with other leagues on an "all-star" basis. Ice times are 8 am - 10:45 am on Saturdays for the older and better players, and 11:30 - 12:45 pm on Sundays for the younger and beginning players.

A few openings remain. Further information and applications can be obtained by calling Pim Goodbody 737-0864 or Roy Cockburn 737-2689.

Newell Thompson. Visiting Friends Academy from Long Island was the loser, 24-22.

As the score indicates, it was no easy task, either. Twice the Panthers had to battle back from eight-point deficits, and needed to stop a two-point conversion attempt and then run out the clock to preserve the victory.

Just one game remains on the schedule, a Saturday afternoon contest away against Morristown-Beard. A win would not only give the Blue and White the New Jersey Prep League title, but further distinction as the best team ever to play football for Princeton Day.

The Panthers achieved that against Friends, boosting their record to 6-1, bettering last year's mark of 5-2-1 and the 1974 record of 5-2. This is the school's 14th season of varsity football.

Morristown-Beard is no powerhouse, but PDS will have to keep its mind on its work. The North Hersey school has yet to win a league game in three tries and is 2-4 overall. It was no match for Pennington last week, losing 26-0. The Red Raiders were substituting freely by the second period.

Dubkowsky at Quarterback. PDS might well have suffered its second loss of the season, had not coach Jim Walker decided upon a key move before the first quarter ended, replacing quarterback Joe Warren with captain Mike Dubkowsky. Although he did not have any game experience, Dubkowsky had practiced at the position during the week.

The move injected new life into a sputtering PDS offense, at a time when the Panthers were already down 8-0. Friends scored in the first period on a 26-yard run by Robert Mansfield and led 6-0 when its extra-point attempt failed.

Later in the period, PDS found itself on its three-yard line after a kickoff, and shortly thereafter was forced into safety when a pitchout went awry. Friends led 8-0 at the end of the period.

Aided by a poor punt, the PDS offense got rolling in the second quarter. Starting on the Friends 35, the Blue and White needed just three plays to score, with John Drezner running the ball in from 26 yards out. Dubkowsky ran the ball over for the two-point conversion, and the half ended with the teams tied at 8-8.

Midway through the third period, PDS found itself behind again, as Mansfield broke loose on a 44-yard jaunt. A successful conversion run put Friends back on top by 16-8.

PDS answered with a six-play 57-yard drive, capped by a 29-yard run by Drezner. Reggie Reese, who did a fine job in place of the injured Thompson, ran for the two points to knot the score at 16-16.

87 Yards in 3 Plays. Early in the fourth quarter, a Friends punt backed the Panthers up to their 13-yard line. Again, it took just three plays to reach the end zone, with Drezner going 68 yards for the score. Another two-point conversion put PDS ahead 24-16, but Friends wasn't finished either.

With their running game bogged down, the visitors took to the air and a halfback option pass caught the PDS secondary napping, and went for a 40-yard gain. A minute later, a 10-yard pass brought Friends its third score, and left it just two points behind, 24-22.

Friends never got those two points. Its attempt was stopped short of the goal line by Sacha Rizzo and Barry Lamb, a junior who had come in as a replacement for Scott Egner. PDS then took the ensuing kickoff and ran out the remaining four minutes on the clock.

Walker praised the play of his offensive line which consistently opened big holes for the Panther running backs. Drezner ran for 202 yards on 16 carries, an average of more than 12 yards a carry, and Reese had 120 yards in 13 carries. Dubkowsky was not called upon to throw a single pass, and really didn't need to.

"We showed a lot of character out there," Walker commented. "It was a good all-around team effort."

school library, is a very grateful man, and not quite buried by all the new file cards.

"So many of these volumes are books I'd have liked to buy, but just couldn't afford," he says, "and of course, many of them are quite advanced and sophisticated, but that's the kind of student body we have."

For relaxation, a student may turn to Joyce Carol Oates' contribution, "The Poisoned Kiss and Other Stories." Ms. Oates is Artist in Residence at the University.

Jeb Magruder has given "From Power to Peace," and Robert Gilbert, of the University's political science faculty, sent approximately 300 books on a variety of subjects related to political science. He told Mr. Highfields that he will donate complimentary copies of new books on political science as they come into the University's Woodrow Wilson School.

The widow of Immanuel Velikovsky gave her late husband's "Worlds in Collision" and "Earth in Upheaval." Walter Kaufmann, shortly before he died this summer, had made a gift of 24 books, including 14 of his own.

More than one donor has given the books of other writers, writer Laura Berquist contributed a whole box of books, and Bill Dwyer, who reviews books for The Trentonian, sent several boxes of review copies, and promised regular donations.

The contributions range wide...

Books on Basketball. Senator Bill Bradley wrote in the John McPhee book, "A Sense of Where You Are," that he'd often been in the school during his basketball years at Princeton University. And, although Pete Carril didn't write the book, it's about him, so "Play to Win" is in the collection.

Abbot Low Mofiat, who lived in southeast Asia for many years, has given his "Mongkut, the King of Siam."

Fletcher Knebel has given his novels. Ernest Gordon, former Dean of the University Chapel, sent "Miracle on the River Kwai," the book in which he describes his wartime ordeal and the faith that sustained him.

One of the most enthusiastic donors is Willard Thorpe, who explained in a letter that he had quite a few books to give — including a biography of Sarah Orne Jewett by the late Mrs. Thorpe — but would be grateful if someone could pick them up, since he is now 81 and, in the interests of other people, has given up driving.

He noted, writing on the flyleaf of a copy of "Moby Dick" which he was sending to the new library, that he is not the author of "Moby Dick." He is, however, Holmes Professor of Belles-Lettres Emeritus, Princeton University, and full of enthusiasm about the book project.

"What an excellent idea," he wrote, in his letter of response to the committee, "to ask authors living in Princeton to contribute books of their making to the enlarged library of the Princeton High School! You ought to be able to bring in a large harvest!"

Bounteous, indeed.

—Katharine H. Bretnall
